

Newmont Recognized by NACD for Excellence in Board Diversity and Innovation

Company won Large Cap category for superior articulation of values; diversity and inclusion programs

DENVER, October 2, 2018 – Newmont Mining Corporation (NYSE: NEM) (Newmont or the Company) announced today that the Company won the Large Cap category at the National Association of Corporate Directors' (NACD) inaugural NACD NXT Recognition Awards. Newmont was chosen from among 25 nominated boards of directors for excellence in harnessing board diversity and innovation as a strategy for creating long-term value.

“For Newmont, this recognition represents years of focus and hard work embracing and integrating inclusion and diversity as a catalyst for enhanced business performance,” said Noreen Doyle, Chair of Newmont’s Board of Directors. “This commitment starts at the very top and I’m proud that five of our 12 highly qualified Board Directors are women. Newmont’s core value of Inclusion and diversity helps us attract and retain the best and brightest – from the broadest talent pool – so we can achieve differentiated business results today and well into the future.”

According to NACD, Newmont was chosen for “superior articulation of its values and the achievement of a wide-ranging diversity and inclusion program from the board level through its global corporate operation that includes metrics and goals for compensation, business resource groups, formal reporting and engagement, and an imaginative board people policy, all of which make it a standout in its industry.”

The inaugural NACD NXT Recognition Gala & Awards Ceremony was held at the NACD Global Board Leaders' Summit on Saturday, September 29, 2018, in Washington, D.C. The gala served as the formal announcement and kick-off of NACD NXT, a multi-year initiative to equip board directors to better navigate the rapidly changing business environment and challenges of the future.
